Now that we have discussed the purpose of dowsing, here are some basic suggestions on how to use these charts. Be as creative as you like, using your intuition to guide you in your dowsing sessions. Each of us have different approaches which may be well integrated in whatever modalities we are using once we have first accomplished a basic understanding of the skills and have become comfortable in our use of whatever the foundational structure is. There are Eight Sections, each focused on a specific topic which is explored in four charts per section. This manual expounds on the ideas given in each section and its' associated charts. It is meant to be used side by side with the chart book until you are well versed in the topics. Choose the charts that are appropriate for your session through one of the following suggestions. Once the charts are selected, open to the correlating descriptions in your manual. Suggested dowsing statements are usually located at the bottom of each chart's description page in the manual. Exceptions to this are: Charts 1 & 4..pg.16; Charts 5 & 6..pg. 24; Charts 7 & 8..pg. 28; Charts 31 & 32..pg. 62.

1. Simply open to each chart and ask, "Is this an appropriate chart to use for (person, situation)?" Wait for a 'Yes' or 'No' response.
 2. Ask from the Contents page, "How many of these charts would be helpful today for (person, situation)?" Go down the list of charts and wait for a 'Yes' response, or use your 'Basic Chart of 10' on pg. to dowse out how many charts on the list apply. Because the number of charts may have two digits in it (i.e.: 13 charts apply today), it is best to first ask "How many digits are in the number of charts on this list that apply to my session now?" If the answer is 1 digit simply ask "what is that number?" If the answer is 2 digits ask "What is the first digit?" Then ask "What is the second digit?" This gives you the number of charts you will need to use. Now ask for the number of the first chart, the second one, etc.
 3. Ask from the Contents page, "How many of these Sections would be helpful today for (person, situation)?" Follow the above steps to find out which Sections apply and go through the four Charts in each.
- * After a number of clearings are complete use a Right spin to 'fill in any voids made by these clearings with Love.

BASIC CHART OF 10

This chart is the most universal of all charts. It can be used to measure practically anything that can be measured. How you set it up in your Mind determines how you use it. It can be used for counting anything. i.e.: “How many charts in this book are appropriate for this dowsing session?” “In how many more days should my client come back for a repeat session?” You can see the numbers as they are, or as 10’s, 100’s, 1,000’s etc. You can also use it for percentages. i.e.: “What percent of this issue is related to a specific Forgiveness Lesson?” “To what percent have I cleared all limiting beliefs around empowerment in my Solar Plexus?” With pendulum held over the center notch at base ask a question and see which number it swings to.
