

Note: Reference to Aleister in the first line of the rite (adapted from the Egyptian Book of the Dead) refers to Aleister Crowley. Reputedly (according to Dale) Alex Sanders was a great fan of Crowley and he regarded himself (Alex) as a follower of Crowley's magick.

Initiation Into The Priesthood of Osiris

Stand before the altar, arms raised to the Gods and to Aleister:

" In the Names of NEKHRET and WADJET - "

Deosil chant to raise power:

" Let there be terror of me like the terror of Thee,

Let there be fear of me like the fear of Thee,

Let there be awe of me like the awe of Thee,

Let there be love of me like the love of Thee,

continue till ready then return to altar, arms raised:

" Let me be powerful and a Leader of Spirits."

Very slowly walk deosil as if to approach Scales, saying:

" May my Name be given to me in the Great House,
and may I remember my Name in the House of Fire,

on the Night of the Counting of Years and of the telling of the number of months.

If any God or Goddess should appear before me,

let me be able to speak their Name immediately.

May my Heart be with me and may it rest there,

Or I shall not eat the bread of Osiris

On the Eastern side of the Lake of Flowers.

My Heart, my mother, may nothing stand up to oppose me at judgement; and so defile this mark;

May no lies be spoken against me in that Hall;

May there be no parting of you from me

in the presence of the One who keeps the Balance;

May no one fetter me or hurl missiles there."

Return to the altar/abyss:-

" You are the Double within my body

which knits together and strengthens my limbs;

May you go on to the place of happiness to which I am moving;

Let there be joy between us at the weighing of words.

Let me eat my food under the Sycamore Tree

of My Lady, the Goddess Hathor;

Let me live upon bread made of white barley,

And let my beer be made from red grain,

And may the persons of my Father and Mother

Be given to me as guardians of my door

And to keep my territory in shape.

Let me be sound and strong; let me have a large room

And let me be able to sit wherever I please."

Turn to face each other, continue:

from Soror Moonshoes' ODL study notes
(c) 2006 Ordine Scatere Stellae

" I am Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow,
I am the Rudder of the East, water in the sky.
Pregnant, She has left Her load in the earth.
The door by the wall is shut fast, terrors overturned and thrown upon the Backbone of Osiris.

I am she who is never overwhelmed in the waters:
I have clasped the Sycamore Tree and I have divided it,
I have come to see the One who dwells in his Uraeus -
Face to face and eye to eye, and I draw to myself
..... the winds which rise when he comes out....."

Both turn Pentagram Position facing Abyes:

" Babe, you are in me and I am in you! "

Turn to the altar:

" O Nut, I have entered into you,
I have counted my harvest,
And I go forward to the Crystal Lake.
This book is your protection:
So you breathe in earth forms forever."

" SPELL 20 - THE DECEASED APPEALS TO THOTH TO VINDICATE HIM
BEFORE THE TRIBUNALS OF THE GODS.

O Thoth, you who vindicated Osiris against his enemies, may you entrap the enemies of N in the presence of the tribunals of every God and every Goddess:

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Heliopolis on that night of battle and of felling those who rebelled.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Busiris on that night of erecting the two Djed-pillars.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Letopolis on that night of performing the night-ritual in Letopolis.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Pe and Dep on that night of confirming the heritage of Horus in respect of the property of his father Osiris.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in the Two Banks on that night when Isis mourned for her brother Osiris.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Abydos on that night of the Haker-festival and of the numbering of the dead and the spirits.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is on the Road of the Dead on that night of making inquiry into him who is nothing

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in the Great Devastation.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Naref.

In the presence of the great tribunal which is in Rosetjau on that night when Horus was vindicated against his enemies.

Horus has become great happily, the Two Conclaves are pleased about it, and Osiris is glad. O Thoth, vindicate N against his enemies in the tribunal of every god and every goddess, and in those tribunals of Osiris which are behind the shrine."

Each take the Negative Confession separately, kneeling before the altar, while the other resumes Osiris position in the East.

Here ends in haken !!

FORMAL END OF CEREMONY

The following not used within the rite! and I believe is from Hawkwind material. Reputedly Hawkwind worked with Alex Sanders and Michael Moorcock. There seems to be some sort of three way connection there. Dale included this as an aftermat to the ceremony.

This completes Osiris Initiation. Site recite 'WINGED ONES'

One additional Ritual necessity. Both say:

" Somewhere in the West, we keep sombre caverns bright and warm for the Barons when they return. Somebody said they're hallucinations - like echoes; like the cities of the Odour-Eaters, like the Moon seen in water - not real even for a moment.

But we've got our music - sparse gut-grinding blues, buzzbomb guitar tone, voice raspy hits the hardest, toughest note. He's in his silver-sequined suit, he's spitting out the lyrics, he's dancing through the cables and wires, tearing, devastating the night.

A place for cosmic cowboys to blowfree. There's no returning. They've made sure we're better off.

Sunk into the nerve centre of wisdom, the Knower experiences the Clear Light of the natural condition; the vital force thrown backwards and flying downwards through the right and left nerves. The rays are so bright that the eyes can scarcely look upon them. They strike against your heart, dazzling, transparent, water sinking into fire.

All around beings will dance, bedecked with bone ornaments, human-hide banners, black serpents and heads which form a garland, eyebrows quivering like lightning, and they will make fumes with incense, move with a palatal sound, like a crackling rumbling thunder.

Hearing it again, the sax hovers beautifully in weary limbo, a disconsolate coil of smoke over wreckage, the stratocaster soloing wierdly, punching notes in and out of their shouts and screams. Puffs out his cheeks and bends his body deep.

... It's a Craft to know how to go, encased in oval form - the Secret Pathway."

Closing Ritual as usual. (inc. As Above... and D/R/L/D)
